HOMESTEAD, Fla. (WSVN) -- A South Dade Senior High School teacher accused of inappropriate behavior with a student has bonded out of jail and has since resigned.

Miami-Dade Police arrested Bresnniel Jansen, 32, Wednesday, after he allegedly had a relationship with a student at the senior high school. Thursday, he bonded out of jail and has since resigned his position, as he awaits trial.

Earlier that day, police said, Jansen confessed to the relationship with a 17-year-old girl, noting they had several sexual encounters, including one at the school. Police also said the two had also exchanged lewd and nude images via cell phone. "The information was received via a third party, which is one of the advantages of having a great relationship with parents, students and the community, which gave us that information," said Miami Dade Schools Police Captain Ivan Silva.

Students said that allegations regarding the jailed teacher had been posted to social networking sites. "Pictures, people tweeting about it a lot. It's just all over Facebook, everything," said Jhavont Dean.

Among several Twitter messages, one read: "I was wondering when would Mr. Jansen get caught."

Police cuffed Jansen on school grounds. A student took a photo of Jansen being handcuffed in the hallway of the school and shared it via Instagram. It was also posted to Twitter, along with several other messages about the alleged underage affair. "I seen everything that happened because I was in the bathroom. It wasn't surprising at all, it wasn't shocking," said sophomore Jaquasha Dean. "[I saw] when the police came in and arrested him."

The married father of two was taken to the Turner Guilford Knight Correctional Facility. He was booked on charges of having committed a sexual act with a child, solicitation and electronic transmissions that are harmful to minors.

Parents learned of the arrest via voicemail. "The school board, they called," said parent Odalys Blanco.

Thursday morning, students reacted to the accusations against their geometry teacher. "He was my teacher, I ain't never think it would happen," Dean said.

Senior student Israel Rivas said he enjoyed having him as a teacher. "He really pays attention, not like other teachers."

"He was a great a teacher," said another student.

Rich Denehy said his daughter attends the high school and is appalled by the alleged inappropriate behavior. "It's disgusting," he said. "I am a retired police officer and to hear something like that with
